MariMed Expands Cultivation Facility in Hagerstown, Maryland

MariMed has recently commenced operations in the newly expanded section of its cultivation and processing facility in Hagerstown, Maryland. This significant expansion will double the facility's flower capacity, enabling MariMed to meet the increasing demand for its flower, concentrates, and edibles products in the state.

Expansion Details

The expansion of MariMed's Hagerstown facility is a strategic move to bolster its production capabilities. The company is on track to populate all nine new grow rooms with new plantings over the next two months. MariMed anticipates that the first harvest from these new grow rooms will be ready for sale through both retail and wholesale channels by the fourth quarter of this year.

Increased Production Capacity

Doubling the facility's flower capacity is expected to significantly enhance MariMed's ability to supply its products across Maryland. The expanded facility will support the growing consumer demand and ensure a steady supply of high-quality cannabis products.

Facility Features

In addition to the expanded cultivation area, MariMed operates a GMP-certified kitchen within the Hagerstown facility. This kitchen is essential for producing the company's wide range of edibles and other cannabis-infused products. MariMed's product portfolio includes:

The upcoming first harvest from the new grow rooms is eagerly anticipated and will be available for purchase later this year through various retail and wholesale channels.
